Introduction

It is with great pleasure and excitement to announce the launch of PSIM News & Views. As the Editor, I am thrilled to present this platform as an extension of our commitment to fostering scientific exchange and collaboration within the field of internal medicine.¹ Over the past four years, the Journal of Pakistan Society of Internal Medicine has made significant strides, serving as a beacon of excellence in scholarly discourse and research dissemination.² Now, as we embark on this new endeavor with the PSIM News & Views, our aim remains steadfast: to provide a comprehensive overview of the latest scientific activities within our society, both on the national and international stage. Within these pages, you will find a curated collection of news, updates, and insights pertaining to the diverse array of initiatives undertaken by the Pakistan Society of Internal Medicine. From groundbreaking research endeavors to impactful community outreach programs, the PSIM News & Views will serve as a testament to our collective dedication to advancing the frontiers of medical knowledge and practice. As we navigate the ever-evolving landscape of healthcare, it is imperative that we stay connected and informed. Through the PSIM News & Views, we hope to facilitate meaningful dialogue, foster interdisciplinary collaboration, and inspire innovation in the pursuit of better health outcomes for all. I extend my heartfelt gratitude to the contributors, reviewers, and editorial team whose dedication and expertise have made this inaugural issue possible. I invite you all to immerse yourselves in the enriching content presented herein and join us in shaping the future of internal medicine in Pakistan and beyond.

In an elegant ceremony, PSIM News & Views was launched in a local hotel in Lahore on 29th of June 2024. A large number of PSIM members and prominent physicians attended. The ceremony was chaired and co-chaired by two renowned journalists of the country, Mr. Najam Sethi and Mr. Wasif Nagi. The editor of Urdu Point Mr. Shahid Nazeer was also present and greatly applauded the magazine.³ They highly appreciated the efforts of the editorial board and PSIM to bring up such a publication for the education of doctors as well as patients.

PSIM, led by Prof. Javed Akram has more ambitions and dreams and will never stop surprising.
